Please note:

If this well in the future is to be used for municipal, public supply, irrigation or commercial purposes the owner must make application with the District and be granted a permit by the Board of Directors. In addition, if this well is to be used to provide water to the public for human consumption, you must first obtain authorization from the TCEQ (Texas Commission On Environmental Quality) before starting construction or drilling of a public water supply well. For clarification, please contact TCEQ at 210-490-3096. Consequently any well not originally intended and drilled specifically for public water supply will probably not qualify as such.

Examples of a public water supply well are: a well that provides water to 15 or more residential connections or, regardless of number of connections, a well that provides water to 25 or more people including children, 60 days out of a year. A well that provides water to any restaurant or beverage provider where water or ice is sold or provided to the public or where water is used in food or beverage preparation or for cleaning of any utensil or article associated with food or beverage preparation, is a public water supply well.

To insure compliance with the District's and County's 75 foot property setback requirements, applicant and driller must know lot size and locations of property lines and any existing and/or planned future septic systems before the well is drilled. Please note even though an individual owns two or more tracks of land continuously that are recorded separately, the well placement needs to meet the 75' setback requirement from a property line regardless if they own the adjoining tract of land.
